

AfPA Calls for Expressions of Interest as It Lays Plans for 2023 International Knowledge Transfer

Wednesday 26th October 2022

The Australian Flexible Pavement Association (AfPA) has called for expressions of interest as the association unveils its ambitions to lead its next International Knowledge Transfer (IKT) tour across the United States in 2023.

The IKT is planned to run over two weeks and is designed to bring together Federal and State Departments, Universities and Research Organisations as well as Contractors and Industry Associations from both countries, to share best practice and shape a stronger future for the industry.

High on the agenda for next year's IKT will be discussions around the sustainability and low carbon future of the industry, binder and asphalt performance, successful safety initiatives and the latest industry innovations.

AfPA has advised that positions are limited, requesting that interested parties register by the 23rd of November here.

Anna D'Angelo, AfPA Executive Director (Technology & Leadership) and organiser of the event, said:

"AfPA are excited to begin plans to deliver our next international knowledge exchange. In the past we have found the concept enormously valuable, enabling the exchange of ideas, processes and best ways of working.

"We welcome all who are interested in the exchange to submit their expressions of interest as soon as possible to allow us to begin laying the solid foundations of our cross-country expedition."
